Dear Barry:

Words cannot express how much your motivational insight has helped and will continue to benefit me and my staff as we put our plan in motion. My staff has given such positive feedback from this experience that I believe it will become a practice they will continue to strive for. I sincerely thank you for giving us this opportunity.

I have always admired your ability to guide and teach people how to better understand the individuals they come in contact with throughout their life. The insights and tools that you taught us will help us to become better individuals and team players both in our professional and private lives. Your wisdom and knowledge is a wonderful asset to share and I thank you for sharing it with us.

As always, it was an honor to spend this time with you. If I or my staff can ever assist you in the future, please call.

Sincerely,

Brian E. Corley
